

Abstract of disclosure

The invention relates to a global reduction method of the concentration of atmospheric carbon dioxide, which is one of the green house gas and the most causative substance to the earth warming, by direct electrolysis treatment of the surface ocean water.